Fergus Falls, Minn., Jan. 25, 1924.

Dear Sirs: The Beta Grape vines you shipped me fall of 1920 arrived in good shape and were planted per your instruction. They made nice growth the first year and better the second, bearing some fruit. The third year, 1923, they had an abundance of fruit on and would have had more if I had not pinched them back more and not let them grow so much to vine. It proves to me that they will do well in this part of the country and I intend to send to you for more next spring.
